The California State University

Some examples of CSU's outreach and academic preparation efforts and resources that are in place to address the "access gap" include:

http://www.calstate.edu/eap/testing.shtml The CSU Early Assessment Program (EAP) allows 11th grade students to assess their college readiness in English and math http://www.calstate.edu/SAS/eop/index.shtml The Educational Opportunity Program (EOP) is an educational access and retention program that supports low-income, educationally disadvantaged students http://www.calstate.edu/college/ The CSU's "How to Get to College" poster outlines steps for middle and high school students to prepare for college http://www.calstate.edu/supersunday/news-room.shtml Super Sundays: the CSU has partnered with churches throughout California to bring awareness to students, parents and families about the importance of early preparation for college. The CSU and church partners have stepped up efforts to prepare students for a brighter future through the Summer Algebra Institutes http://www.piqe.org/ The CSU partners with the Parent Institute for Quality Education (PIQE), which helps strengthen parent involvement in elementary and middle school students' education http://www.calstate.edu/veterans/benefits.shtml CSU is part of the state-wide Troops to College initiative, which is a developed academic outreach and enrollment plan to help California's 60,000 veterans attend colleges and universities http://www.calstate.edu/roadtocollege/ The CSU in partnership with AT&T will conduct its second Road to College Tour later this year